

Dear Parents

It is great to be back on board after a week of illness! I am back to my usual self and am looking forward to creating our wearable arts costumes next week. I would like to extend a big thank you, in advance, for the provision of materials for your child's costume. They have some wonderful ideas and I'm sure that they are going to turn out great!

Next week I will not be running our normal programme. Instead we will be creating our wearable arts costumes. This means that there will be no spelling or basic facts homework, no reading homework, and the classroom programme will be geared around our wearable arts only.

Of course I would be very grateful of any and all help that can be given. You don't have to be able to sew; all you need to be able to do is be flexible enough to lend a hand wherever it is needed. I would prefer if you did not bring pre-schoolers, as we will have paint and small items lying around that would be dangerous for them. Having to keep an eye on them would defeat the purpose of having help in the first place. I am sure you understand.

So, if you are able to help during next week, please return the slip below with details of when, otherwise, keep us in your thoughts as we embark on this wonderful learning journey together.

Cheers
Wendy
